Loss and Grief

Loss and grief is often viewed as “something to get over” to “move on from”, as if it’s somehow unusual and problematic. Loss and grief is often talked about in a way that makes us feel uncomfortable and something to avoid. What if I make it worse? What if I say the wrong thing? Why haven’t they moved on?

What if we started, as a community, talking about Loss and Grief not so much as a problem to be solved but as a state of being that is in fact a story of love and connection. This Online Workshop will unpack ideas around loss and grief and ask participants to reflect on their own losses, the way things have been managed and explore ways to talk about loss and grief differently.

It is recommended that workers who have experienced a recent loss NOT attend this workshop.

REGISTER NOW! PLACES ARE STRICTLY LIMITED TO ENSURE THAT YOU EXPERIENCE A HIGH LEVEL OF ENGAGEMENT AND INTERACTIVITY.

Learning Outcomes:

- Increased confidence in approaching and talking about loss with people;
- Increased knowledge in a framework to underpin experiences of loss' and
- Increased capacity to “be with” clients in the midst of loss

Facilitated by Angharad Candlin: a Registered Psychologist, Board Authorised Supervisor and Adjunct Fellow with Macquarie University’s Department of Psychology. She has been practising for nearly 30 years and has always worked with children, adolescents and parents. She is the lead author of two, internationally recognised parenting programs; Keeping Kids in Mind and My Kids and Me. My Kids and Me also achieved Gold Standard Accreditation with the Institute of Group Leaders and won the CSSA Award for Most Innovative New Program in 2014. She trains, supervises and mentors practitioners in a number of areas including parent coaching, working with trauma and group facilitation skills. She regularly speaks at conferences and parenting events and is called on for comment by the media regarding parenting issues.
